W. S. EATON REFUSES TO BE A WITNESS

JEROME REFUSES TO BE A WITNESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—An informant was quickly returned against Harry S. T. today, charging him with conspiracy to escape from Matthews Army for the Insane. The informant was returned by the Supreme Court Grand Jury, sitting in New York County.

Four other men were indicted with Thaw for conspiracy. They are: Former Assemblyman Richard Butler, "Educator" Roger Thompson, Thaw's lawyer on the day from Matthews, Michael O'Keefe and Eugene Duffy, accused of being Thaw's companions. Bonds warrants were immediately issued for Thaw and the four others.

The whole proceedings, taking much time for examination of witnesses, for indictment and for warrants, than it was supposed would be the case, was a sweeping victory for William Thaw, Jerome, who handled the investigation as special Attorney General.

The indictment was based on Jerome's charge that the plot to free Thaw from Matthews was hatched in this city.

Score of Witnesses. Jerome had over a score of witnesses to back up his charge. It was expected that the grand jurors would sit three or four days.

But, to the general surprise, the proceedings occupied only a few hours. Evidence of Jerome's witnesses had been examined when it was announced that a blanket indictment had been returned against Thaw and the four others.

Extraordinary arrangements were made to enable Jerome to have full legal authority and advantage in his interview with Thaw.

The Supreme Court Grand Jury was organized to the task by order of a court given himself. Jerome was empowered to handle the case as a special Attorney General by authority of Attorney General Cullen.

For all practical purposes, it was Jerome's word, Jerome's own Grand Jury and Jerome's own witnesses. It is said that so many of the witnesses, though acting as a special prosecutor, were in the case in hand.

The Grand Jury proceedings were in the face of complete protest by Thaw's New York contacts, who say that he has been unjustly legally incited in New York and therefore cannot be indicted.

This objection was voiced by William Thaw, who said that Thaw's lawyer, it claimed, had been indicted by the Grand Jury that this effort to indict Thaw is grossly illegal.

The Grand Jury and Justice Grogan, and Mr. Grogan, "should be informed of the charge of Justice Sweeney in the Supreme Court when he was called as a witness in the case of John N. Smith, a lawyer accused of bribery in April last, Justice Sweeney said.

"The witness whom you insist to call has been indicted as incite as to be criminally irresponsible in the face of his testimony. You must do so in respect of the fact that you are perverting the testimony of a witness perjured."

"I make this statement to you because, as an incriminating person, the witness is entitled to the protection of the law."

EVELYN'S DRAMATIC LOVE STORY

CHAPTER LII.

"Who ran to help me when I fell, and would some pretty story tell, or like the place to make it well?"

My mother.

—JANE TAYLOR

Though the above lines relate to child-hood's time, they applied to Harry Thaw and his mother, for Mary Corby Thaw had ever sacrificed herself for Harry, rushed to his aid, comforted him and defended him, as though he were a child. The mother had loved her son, and the last words of the father, his schoolmaster, his relatives, his friends and the authorities in lower trustees. Now she was only to shield him from the capital punishment of the law with every means at her command.

From the moment when the terrible news was broken to her, as surely as possible, in London, the mother had had but one thought, to set to her legs as quickly as possible.

Her daughter and son-in-law had tried to keep her abroad. She was in a physical condition to stand the strain of a return voyage and a meeting with Harry. But the mother would not listen. She returned on the first available boat.

Evelyn Writes: 'I Do Not Fear Jerome, I Am Stronger than He'

Jerome told the reporters that "he won't do a thing to Mrs. Evelyn Thaw when he gets her on the stand." Yet I am not afraid of Jerome. Before the trial I saw the portrait of a square-jawed man—Jerome. I took the card home and studied it.

I never fear these square-jawed men. The theory of the physiognomist that strength is found in the building chin is the greatest of all the fakes. I have met many men, and I have not known one with square jaws who was not essentially weak. They are emotional, and their emotions in times of stress always get the better of their judgment. In the prize fight the square jaw finds its place—it is always the loser where the battle is one of brains. If Jerome's chin were sharper, I would fear him. As it is, I know that I am stronger than he is.—A passage from Evelyn's diary, written just before she took the stand in the Thaw murder trial. From her own story in Sunday's AMERICAN.

Before she had seen armed the mother was made to realize the petty difficulty that the law had met about her son. In addition to the overwhelming burden of the murder charge itself, she found that she could not see Harry until nearly two days, on account of the "Sunday rule" in force at the time.

Met by Cutter. The Katherine Augusta Victoria docked late Saturday afternoon, J. B. Gleason of Thaw's new counsel and Captain Wade of the Toms went out on a revenue cutter to meet the steamer. They did not see Mrs. Thaw, but her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie (Mrs. Thaw's sister), who had crossed with her.

The lawyer and the captain learned that the mother remained to see Harry. They told the Carnegies that there was no prospect of the mother being allowed in the Toms Sunday, as no Sunday pass had been obtained from Prison Commissioner Lantry. The Carnegies told Mrs. Thaw, who bore the disappointment as bravely as she could.

At the dock the party was met by Joseph Thaw, with two electric automobiles. Reporters were waved aside.

"My mother will see no one, not even the chaplain and lawyer, until she has seen Harry."

They were driven to the Loraine Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth street, where the Carnegies lived and Evelyn, also. The mother and her son-in-law and daughter-in-law met and embraced. In greeting was warm and above and on the mother's face, according to all reports, came from the Loraine.

Evelyn smiled. From the bottom of her heart, the woman whose life had been late since a chain of sorrows.

Mrs. Thaw returned pay for sympathy for the girl whose husband was in a fearful situation.

Remained in Seclusion. The mother remained in the Carnegie apartments in solution, with her there much of the time. Clifford W. Harridge, Harry's new lawyer for defense, called but did not see his wife. He did talk briefly with Joseph Thaw, who bore the disappointment as bravely as she could.

At the dock the party was met by Joseph Thaw, with two electric auto-

Says Only One Marriage in One Hundred is Happy

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Out of every 100 marriages only one is a happy union, according to Dr. J. G. Clark, a psychologist, church worker and sociologist. Here are the eight reasons he gives why the ninety-nine live distressed lives:

1.—Lack of sympathy.
2.—Lack of understanding.
3.—Lack of love.
4.—Lack of respect.
5.—Lack of confidence.
6.—Lack of honesty.
7.—Lack of purity.
8.—Lack of faith.

Harvard's "Dickey" boys are about to turn their hands to being regular "out-put" men. Has Chicken Dinner and Then Is Hanged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—That his last meal on earth might be a roast chicken dinner, "with all the trimmings," John W. Mass, murderer, was given a three-hour reprieve. Mass was hanged for the murder of Mail Carrier Harrison Brown. Yesterday Mass told the sheriff that he wanted a good hot meal before the execution. In order to permit Mass to have this meal, the sheriff delayed the hanging.

Vote Often as You Like on These

Candidate Hild has traveled two thousand miles, in his campaign. His David Walsh will be going some when the returns are counted.

Mr. Gardner's "wailing" at Mr. Hild was pretty weak stuff. But when labor leaders say that it was also mostly empty statements, it becomes weaker still. The net result has been to make Mr. Hild the most popular labor candidate in the field.

Candidate Gardner would become United States Senator if elected. Of course, N. H. that he never decided yet what he thinks of the railroad situation. Mr. Gardner's candidacy is about as attractive as the proposition of the man who wails.

"Maybe some day I'll earn some money, and if you give me $5 now I'll decide then whether I'll pay it back or not."

If Mr. Gardner would take a definite position on the railroad issue he could at least command the respect of the voters. His evasive answers to all requests for a statement of his platform have put him hopelessly out of the running, but Mr. Gardner is so busy singing songs of immigration that he doesn't know he's beaten.

A State street man, who has made politics a pretty profitable business, called to forecast the election. He said: "You will get the form vote, and the honest man's vote."

"You will get the labor vote, and most of the normal, independent. He is a son of a gun."

He proceeded to explain. "If the State Committee vote, I mean the vote of the little cohort that has sent Gardner to Chicago. The form vote doesn't include all farmers, but that class of voters who are swayed by the same influence in agricultural matters. The labor vote includes men who consider labor matters over everything else. Walsh will get the 'straight ticket' Democrats, and the independent who don't care for farmer or laborer, but only for a livelihood administration."

CARTER'S KNIT UNDERWEAR WEEK AT THE SHEPARD STORE

SOME OF THE FEATURES
THAT INFLUENCED US
TO SELECT CARTER'S UNDERWEAR FOR THIS GREAT SALE

The reinforced shoulders to withstand the strain where it's hardest.

The scientific cut of neck prevents the pull which in the ordinary suit makes it necessary for you to leave your top button open.

The excellent cut of every garment which makes it fit like a tailored-to-order suit—not bulky and thick.

The exceptionally large range in weights of cotton, flax, wool.

The trim-fitting ankle and cuff that never bag or get loose.

The buttons and ends of seams all really reinforced so they positively do not come off or rip.

The quickness with which the changes in Underwear fashion are reflected in Carter models.

The beauty and good taste of the trimmings and the excellent lines of the models.

The elasticity of the Carter rib, which makes a garment that hugs the figure.

WILLIAM CARTER

William Carter, trained to the art of Knitting in England was one of the first to introduce Lee's Knitting-Frame into the United States—settling at Needham Heights—a beautiful village on the outskirts of Boston.

From the half-dozen primitive hand-run Knitting-Frames, the Carter Underwear enterprise has developed into three immense factories—with a daily output that almost staggers belief.

The writer, representing SHEPARD NORWELL COMPANY, has just made a personal inspection of the Carter Knit Underwear factory. Here are some of the things he saw:

Five hundred thousand dollars' worth of Underwear in the stock rooms for men, women, children and infants.

Hundreds of men and women working with the steady, unhurried precision that comes of expert knowledge.

Happy, healthy operatives controlling wonderful machines and finishing garments with deft, facile and capable hands.

A marvel of hygienic perfection. Few hotels can claim equal sanitary arrangements. Plenty of light and fresh air.

A factory without a hint of grime, or dirt, or cowbells—no dust or suggestion of sweat-shop restlessness.

A single thread goes through the various intricate processes that converted it into a finished garment.

AFTER DAYS OF WARM RAIN THERE'S A NIP IN THE WEATHER THAT CALLS FOR

HEAVIER UNDERWEAR

We do more than cordially invite you to come here and examine Carter Knit Underwear—WE STRONGLY URGES YOU TO COME.

Garments for men, women, children and infants—cotton, merino and wool in graded weights. Carter Underwear is full of life and elasticity. The materials, being properly knitted, elongate and contract, but stretch them as much as you may—they will not stay out of shape. Won't sag or limp anywhere.

Ritchie Choice for Battle With Cross

Lightweight Champion's Skill Should Enable Him to Vanquish New York Fighter.

By JACK CONWAY.

WILLIAM RITCHIE, the lightweight champion, will make a favorite when he meets Leach Cross in a ten-round bout in New York on Friday night. It is believed that Ritchie's skill and speed will enable him to out-point the last fighting New Yorker.

There are still some ring critics who contend that Ritchie is a phony champion. The Prince, however, proved that he must be classed as a real title holder when he decisively defeated Joe Rivers.

Cross is a popular idol in New York and large sums of money are being bet on his victory. He is the only one to be watched on him in the light of the lightweight king. New Yorkers are usually back home late. They are unable to see the bout of any other or outside team which is fitted against some of the fighters would require the fight to be held in the city.

New York sporting men were sure that the fight would require the fight to be held in the city. The fight was held in the city. The fight was held in the city.

Golf Notes

By H. P. FARRINGTON.

In the two or three occasions the past week that the sun has been generous enough to smile upon the golfers it has been noticeable that a large number of new and better players have been on the various courses. The white ball lying in the grass seemed to attract and hold them and I had to drive away on a few of the shots I played in a recent round at Woodlawn.

Another sign of Indian summer or the Indian's work of nature was evidenced in the fact that the sun seemed to be smiling upon the golfers. The white ball lying in the grass seemed to attract and hold them and I had to drive away on a few of the shots I played in a recent round at Woodlawn.

VOICE FROM ENGLAND.

Your men may lead us on the links and on the polo field. And when it comes to handling gloves our fighters have to yield. Your men may lead us on the track and on the tennis court. At running, jumping, boxing, wrestling and all other forms of sport. And yet a song of my agenda above our athletes and our men. OUR WOMEN LEAD AT PLAYING GOLF AND HEAVING COBBLES.

One thing that is hard to imagine is a supposedly intelligent administration, directing Mr. Fournier and allowing a lot of high-binders, known as wrestlers, to lead on our hospitable shores and let their muscles waste without rest or hindrance.

It is not necessary for Cap Anson to prove that his team could have defeated the Athletics. He admits it.

A little more of the current weather and the world would be in a condition to play in tennis, golf and cricket.

Nevertheless, it is estimated that by the time the athletes are ready to play ball they will have become deuced to death.

FOES OF STATE GOVERNMENT

The fourth of the series of political articles by Governor N. F. Foss, being published in the AMERICAN, is as follows:

RECIPROITY AND THE WELFARE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

The present administration at Washington has "reduced" the tariff. The popular demand for the reduction of the duties on raw materials and the necessities of life has been growing for many years. I have personally given some eleven years of effort to help in securing such changes in the tariff as would reduce the cost of living to the wage-earners of this country.

There can be no doubt that this tariff reduction has been most timely, high, and even the capitalists who have directly benefited now admit this. Why, then, do I disagree with the Wilson administration? Why did I ask the Massachusetts Legislature to authorize Congress to change the policy of a low tariff as proposed by the President? Why did our Legislature do this? Here is the answer; and I ask every wage-earner in Massachusetts to read it.

The present tariff bill makes our foreign competitors a free field of our own resources, and this market is our most valuable national possession (in a just sense).

Why? He Asks.

Why give away our market? Why not at all give away our land, our houses, our deposits in the savings bank?

We want the foreigner to sell his merchandise to this country, so that we can sell our surplus products to his market.

So long as we controlled our home market, we held the position of power, of advantage, of control, over the foreign manufacturer. We could bargain with him and win the right to our own competitors in Europe, Asia, India, Australia (congress has not asked the foreigner to give us in return for his favor any advantage whatever). We have received from him no additional concessions to our home market.

What Law Says.

And this is the crime against American industry and American labor, of the present tariff bill. This bill does not say to the foreigner "You may ship up your products at a lower rate, provided you will let us ship ours at a lower rate to you." That would be "reciprocity." It merely says: "You may ship up your goods from" or at a lower rate, and it stops there. It has thrown away certain sections of our home market, and we have not had the foreigner to give us in return for his favor any advantage whatever. We have received from him no additional concessions to our home market.

Seek Federal Aid in Typhoid Epidemic

I am a manufacturer. I sell machinery and other products in the market of the United States. But unless I can sell my surplus products in foreign markets, I must shut down my surplus production and lay off my men during one or more months each year.

Every workman in Massachusetts knows that American industries have suffered the loss of their market for foreign markets. Failure to get these foreign markets has caused our mills and factories. The steady job becomes harder and harder.

We must scheme and bargain to get these foreign markets, by every honorable means. Congress could have guaranteed them to us, and had done the law that our new tariff reduction would have granted only to such foreign countries

"Help Yourself."

But it did not do this. Congress acts, in effect, to the foreign manufacturers and their employees. On, here, here is the American man, the valuable man in the world. "Help yourself." And against that sort of legislation I register my most earnest protest—until I shall keep on fighting!

We shall have no solution of our tariff problem, and we can expect no relief, until we get our own wage-earners as a nation from a low tariff, until we get our tariff on the basis of reciprocity. The tariff has not done this. I trust the tariff will do this. I trust the tariff will do this. I trust the tariff will do this.

What is Needed.

We shall get reciprocity when the voters compel the Washington politicians to enact it. But we shall not get it until we have a tariff which is not a tariff in name, but a tariff in fact. The tariff is not directly an issue at this time. It is a tariff in name, but a tariff in fact. The tariff is not directly an issue at this time. It is a tariff in name, but a tariff in fact.

Gloucester Fish Trade Imperilled

Herring Fleet Faces Canadian Competition in Tariff.

GLoucester, Oct. 23.—Gloucester got today the effects of the new "free fish" treaty with Canada, which permits the herring fleet to export herring for the annual season of herring fishing off Newfoundland. The protection which the herring fleet has enjoyed against vessels of the maritime provinces has been removed, and the coming winter will see active competition.

Estimates show that 40 per cent. of the herring fleet will be sent to the United States to fish for herring. The herring fleet will be sent to the United States to fish for herring. The herring fleet will be sent to the United States to fish for herring.

Volturno's Hulk Menaces Navigation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Submarine, the belief of Captain Lusk, revenue cutter headmaster, is that the hulk of the burned steamer Volturno, drifting in the path of navigation, threatens another disaster by floating as a derelict in the path of navigation.

Five Die in Fight with Filipinos

MANILA, Oct. 23.—In the clashes at Talipao, in Mindanao, between the Filipino and the Philippine army, five men have been killed and eight wounded, Captain Harry McIlroy of the Third Company of Scouts is among the wounded.

Will Watch Wage Cutting.

The Wilson administration proposes to use the country for instances of wage-cutting, and if any industries are blamed upon the new tariff legislation to learn if the excuse is valid. Works ago he said the government would investigate the situation and now he remarks that threats of wage-cutting will be followed by a bill to give the government the right to investigate the situation.
